

Friday, May 1st, 2026

Dear Hiring Manager,

I am writing to offer an emphatic recommendation for Isabella Boateng. As Bella's co-op advisor and lead instructor during her Teaching Assistant position at Northeastern University, I have had the pleasure of witnessing her learn and grow in her role as a coach and mentor to students in our co-op program. Throughout this time, she has demonstrated a passion for learning, a love of community, and consistent kindness and support to all student peers, faculty, and staff in our College.

I first met Bella as an advisee and student in my CS 1210 course. Throughout her three years as an advisee, student, co-op and Teaching Assistant, Bella has been communicative and industrious. She brings a positive attitude to a challenging co-op search process and advocates for support when she needs it. At the end of her first search cycle, she earned a position as UX/UI Marketing Co-op at Vicor Corporation, where she was able to further develop her design skills.

As a co-op ambassador, she encourages her peers to embrace a growth mindset in their learning and career development. In her role as Teaching Assistant in Khoury College's CS 1210: Professional Development for Co-op course, Bella effectively mentored and supported students throughout their first co-op search cycle. She reviewed resumes with remarkable attention to detail, led workshops and mock interview sessions, contributing to the preparedness levels of students, and frequently provided valuable insights about the impacts and challenges of her co-op experiences in live sessions of our class.

In the classroom, Bella listened to student needs and ensured that students felt comfortable asking for support in a manner that fostered an inclusive learning atmosphere. The CS 1210 course has learners with a wide variety of work and technical experiences, which can present a challenge in terms of providing students with differentiated and individualized feedback. Bella was adept at providing a personal touch to each of her student advising sessions. She completed work in a timely manner, asking clarifying questions to keep tasks moving forward, and sought out additional tasks and initiatives to support our team with.

One of Bella's qualities that I admire most is her ability to develop relationships with students across lines of difference. Her kindness, sincerity, and supportive nature allow her to connect with people of different races, genders, socioeconomic backgrounds, and ages. I have witnessed this not just in her interactions with students, but in the exemplary feedback she has received from our co-op employer partners at Vicor Corporation in their end of semester feedback surveys. Our University is incredibly lucky to have Harini as a student and a leader - and I am confident that she will continue to make a deep impact on the future teams that are smart enough to bring her on.

Should you have any further questions about Bella, feel free to reach out to me at 617-373-6250 or via e-mail at g.schwab@northeastern.edu.

Best,

Garrett Schwab
Assistant Co-op Coordinator